How does Energinet set the threshold for voltage unbalance contributions?

Energinet sets the threshold for voltage unbalance contributions by stipulating that the maximum voltage unbalance contribution of the generation facility is 0.2% in the point of connection.

How does Energinet set the threshold for DC content?

17. In order to set the specific thresholds for DC content, Energinet sets the threshold for DC content by stipulating that the maximum DC content of the generation facility amounts to 0.5% of the rated current in the point of connection, measured in the AC current from the generation facility. 18.

What is Energinet thdu?

(5) Energinet sets a specific threshold for the total harmonic voltage distortion (THDU). (6) These harmonic voltage components are defined as 95-percent quantile levels, calculated on the basis of 10-minute aggregated values measured over a week. Aggregation is to be done as specified in DS/EN 61000-4-30. 4.
