

Muscat Folding Container Corrosion-Resistant Type

Overview

Why do shipping containers rust?

When used in cargo shipping, they endure harsh conditions on the seas, exposing containers to humid conditions that might make other steel-based products quickly rust away. Are shipping containers made of a special type of steel?

Are containers rust-proof?

While containers aren't rust-proof, they are rust-resistant. Containers' primary use is on cargo ships, so they're made with a special type of steel called Corten Steel. Corten is a combination of two terms: COR, standing for corrosion resistant, and TEN, referring to tensile strength.

What are the different types of offshore containers?

Offshore containers are designed for extreme marine environments, ensuring durability, safety, and compliance. Key types include Cargo Carrying Units (CCUs), reefer containers, workshop units, accommodation containers, and hazardous goods storage.

Does a steel container rust?

Rust is an inevitability for shipping containers. However, with a careful eye and regular maintenance, your container can be preserved to maintain its condition for many years to come. The key to preventing container rust is regular monitoring and taking quick action on affected areas. Luckily, maintaining your steel container is straightforward.
