

Solar panel glass bonding

Overview

What is a bonding solar module?

Bonding lightweight solar modules allows installers to tap into a new market, that has never been attainable before. It is the go-to solution for low load-bearing roofs and historical buildings that suffer from structural issues. of commercial and industrial roofs lack the minimum load capacity to support conventionally mounted glass solar panels.

What is glass bonding?

Glass bonding is defined as the process of joining glass substrates through various techniques, such as anodic bonding, surface activated bonding, fusion bonding, adhesive bonding, and laser welding, each involving specific conditions and methods to achieve desired bond strength and integrity. How useful is this definition?

How do ions bond to glass?

Positive ions diffusing away from the bonding interface generate free NBO anions that bond chemically with silicon, forming Si-O-Si covalent bonds . It should be noted that, to bond glass to any other material by anodic bonding, the glass should contain NBO anions (and hence mobile ions).

Why should you choose Innotec bonded solar panels?

Lightweight solar modules bonded with high-performance adhesives from Innotec are a winning combination. Fast and simple installation. Compared to installing traditional glass solar panels, bonding lightweight solar panels goes 30 - 40 % faster.
